Preparing for Sony Creative Science Award?

Do you want to help your students expand their knowledge in Science and be prepared for Sony Creative Science Award? We are offering an enrichment course that allows the students to design and build toys to illustrate certain principles of science. It also combines the elements of fun, creativity and scientific knowledge and exploits a child's natural curiosity for making discoveries and figuring out how things work.

Fun & Magic with Science enrichment course equips your students for Sony Creative Science Award!

Students will be given the chance to connect science to their daily lives and “do” science in creative and engaging ways! They can even involve themselves in hands-on activities and inquiry-based exploration!

During this enrichment course, students will have experience in constructing their own experiments and learn science concepts in a fun and easy way! A Question & Answer session will also be conducted towards the end of the enrichment course.
